Leviticus

Getting Closer to God

A Study Guide Prepared By Gary W. McCall

Bible Center Church 2020

BEGINNING YOUR STUDY

WHAT BIBLE VERSIONS ARE GOOD?

Reading Leviticus in an easy to understand version will be key to your studying and applying the truth God reveals to your Christian walk. A person who studies this book carefully will gain great insight into holy living and will be like the man Jesus described,

"Every teacher of religious law who becomes a disciple in the Kingdom of Heaven is like a homeowner who brings from his storeroom new gems of truth as well as old."

Matthew 13:52 (NLT)

The pastor will be preaching from our pew Bible which is New Living Translation (NLT). It is a dynamic equivalence translation that seeks to communicate all the information contained in the original text. Another example of this type of translation is the New International Version (NIV).

Most other modern English translations follow a formal equivalence philosophy and without being woodenly literal, seek to convey the form of the original text as much as possible. You should also consult one of these versions in your study as well:

- English Standard Version (ESV) follows the KJV tradition
- New King James Version (NKJV) update of KJV language
- New Revised Standard Version (NRSV) update of RSV (includes Apocrypha)
- New American Standard Bible (NASB95) update of NASB
- New American Bible (NAB) translation with additional Roman Catholic scriptures

Moses wrote Leviticus in Hebrew. The pastor will be consulting the Hebrew text Biblica Hebraica Stuttgartensia (BHS) as well as comparing the Greek translation of Leviticus (LXX) when the passages are directly quoted in the New Testament (NA^{27}). If he turns up anything significant, this will be noted in the student notes with the appropriate lesson.

HOW SHOULD I PREPARE FOR LEVITICUS?

- 1. We should begin with intense, prayer to be what God wants us to be, holy. In this book we will find out what it means to be separated from this sinful world dominated by the evil one to live with the holy God as a people of faith. Ask God to open your eyes to His truth. We always need this, but much more in this study because much of what we will read has not been capable of being practiced in the nearly 2,000 years since Jerusalem fell in 70 AD destroying the Temple.
- 2. Because much of what is written here is cannot be applied directly to anyone, we must make certain that we not only understand its original direct application, but also what it was originally designed to teach people about approaching and living with a holy God, doing His will, as well as to treating those around us in a holy manner. This will give us some guidelines in developing principles which apply to all believers in every generation. Rooker in the New American Commentary: Leviticus notes,

Since the Book of Leviticus is mainly concerned with the preservation of the covenant relationship between sinful people and their holy God, the principles and theology of the passages are directly applicable to the believer's contemporary life because these conditions are not time bound.¹

- 3. In order to understand the author's meaning, we will study the historical and cultural context in which Moses and the children of Israel were immersed. The language he used will provide us clues as to what they were to learn.
- 4. Keep this outline of Leviticus we will be using in mind to avoid get lost in details:

```
RITUAL Sacrifices (Chapters 1-7)

PRIESTS Ordained (Chapters 8-10)

PURITY Rituals (Chapters 11-15)

DAY OF ATONEMENT (Chapter 16-17)

PURITY in Morals (Chapters 18-20)

PRIESTS Qualifications (Chapters 21-22)

RITUAL Feasts (Chapters 23-25)

Call to Covenant Faithfulness (Chapters 26-27)

This outline is visualized on page iv and a video presentation of it can be viewed on YouTube: https://youtu.be/IJ-FekWUZzE or search: bible project Leviticus.

5. Leviticus will be more challenging reading than many other portions of Scripture because the things it describes are so unfamiliar to us in modern society. Most of us have little or no experience in slaughtering animals, for instance, as we buy our meat already in packages. I would suggest doing your initial reading according to the following plan:

	Chapters
Monday	1-3
Tuesday	4-7
Wednesday	8-10
Thursday	11-15
Friday	16-20
Saturday	21-24
Sunday	25-27

- 6. After you read that day's assignment, write down every question you have. You might want to use a paper notebook or make a note in your electronic Bible. Try reading in the NLT and one of these versions each day ESV, NRSV, or the NASB95.
- 7. If you really want to 'master' the book, you should follow this survey plan for the entire study. After about four weeks, the benefit of this reading in increasing comprehension will confirm this is the best way or you will come up with a better system. Whatever you do, don't give up! Keep reading, even if you slow down a little.
- 8. You should make summary notes as you read through Leviticus. One way of doing this is to try to record a short title for each chapter along with additional notes of further break downs within each chapter. This chart should help you record your ideas:

CAN I REALLY GET IT?

Leviticus is challenging to interpret because many of the things it deals with are so unfamiliar to us. Since we are not under that system of worship, it also presents difficulty in accurately applying the truths it teaches to life in Christ.

With your disciplined reading schedule, survey chart, and periodic watching the Bible Project's Overview video presentation on YouTube: https://youtu.be/IJ-FekWUZzE you will have a good grasp of the structure of Leviticus and will begin to grasp the relationships of the various parts.

If you listen and take notes on the Sunday sermon, you will have a good introduction to each passage. On Sunday afternoon, re-read the Scripture of the sermon.

Sometime during the week begin jotting down answers to the Study Questions. Feel free to add your own questions along with possible answers. We want to observe who, what, when, where, why, and how.

As to the WHO question, the people to whom Moses originally gave these instructions had just been delivered from Egypt and were not very holy. All they had was a call to be a separate people for God. They had constructed the Tabernacle so that God could dwell in their midst without destroying them, but they needed to learn what that holiness meant and how they could live with their Savior and God.

Likely these instructions were written down for their children, the second generation, the ones who would enter the land and conquer it. It was with them and their descendants who would continue to worship God that this ongoing covenant was made.

WHAT ABOUT US?

They were also written down for our instruction in the present age.

"These things happened to them as examples for us. They were written down to warn us who live at the end of the age."

1 Corinthians 10:11 (NLT)

All Scripture is profitable to study.

¹⁶All Scripture is inspired by God and is useful to teach us what is true and to make us realize what is wrong in our lives. It corrects us when we are wrong and teaches us to do what is right.¹⁷God uses it to prepare and equip his people to do every good work.

– 2 Timothy 3:16–17 (NLT)

We are not looking to re-institute these rituals, but we do seek to learn about our great salvation. In Leviticus, we can expect to understand what Jesus' death was meant to do. His blood cleanses us from all sin.

We also will be looking at the moral standard of love to which Jesus Christ saved us. If it was unloving to do something in Leviticus, we should consider if it might not be unloving still today. For instance, Paul deals with a believer in Corinth who had his father's wife, thus not acting in love towards his father.

Dr. Lindsey points out the reality as well as the limitations of the Levitical sacrifices:

- Sacrificial atonement involved the actual removal of the guilt and punishment for the particular sin(s) involved.¹
- They were limited in moral efficacy. Since empty ritualism was never an acceptable option to God, a truly acceptable sacrifice must have been prompted by genuine faith and moral obedience to the revealed will of God (26:14–45, esp. v. 31; Pss. 40:6–8; 51:16–17; Prov. 21:27; Amos 5:21–24; Heb. 10:5–10; 11:4, 6).
- They were limited in scope to certain kinds of personal sins. Theologically they did not atone for the sin nature, or for the imputed sin of Adam. Nor did they even include willful acts of sin which were committed in defiance of God (cf. Num. 15:30–31) and therefore not a complete and final scheme whereby all forms of sin could be removed.
- They were limited in purpose to the covenant preservation and renewal of a redeemed people. Corporately, and perhaps for the most part individually, the occasion of the slaying of the Passover lamb and the application of its blood to the doorposts in Egypt were outward expressions of inward faith that signaled the regeneration and justification of individual Israelites. The subsequent sacrificial system dealt ideally with worship and covenant renewal, not initial salvation. It was comparable to the New Testament believer's experience of 1 John 1:9, not to the sinner's experience of John 3:16.
- Except for the Day of Atonement ritual, the sacrifices were limited in scope and duration to one sin per sacrifice. The forgiveness granted was real though temporary (in the sense that each sin required another sacrifice).²
- Their efficacy was not inherent in the animals sacrificed or in the entire sacrificial ritual. God provided atonement and forgiveness in view of the all-sufficient sacrifice that Jesus Christ would offer on the cross. Christ's death was "a sacrifice of atonement" by which God paid in full for the forgiveness which He had extended before the Cross (Rom. 3:25). In other words, the Levitical sacrifices were validated in the mind of God on the basis of Christ's death as the one truly efficacious Sacrifice for all sin, the Lamb of God who was slain from the foundation of the world (Rev. 13:8; cf. 1 Peter 1:19–20). The efficacious value of the sacrifices was therefore derivative rather than original. It is in this sense that the author of Hebrews asserts, "It is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins" (Heb. 10:4).³

Another great take-away from Dr. Lindsey relates to typology,

- ... those who seek to interpret types must always remember:
 - 1. to give proper attention to the historical reality, noting especially its symbolic and redemptive significance to Old Testament believers and its subsequent continuation, commemoration, and influence on future generations of Israelites until its fulfillment in the antitype;

¹ F. Duane Lindsey, The Bible Knowledge Commentary: An Exposition of the Scriptures, 1985, 1, 164.

² F. Duane Lindsey, The Bible Knowledge Commentary: An Exposition of the Scriptures, 1985, 1, 165.

³ F. Duane Lindsey, The Bible Knowledge Commentary: An Exposition of the Scriptures, 1985, 1, 165–166.

- 2. to locate the chief point(s) of resemblance between the type and its antitype, and not to press the interpretation beyond these points;
- 3. to relate the understanding of the typical significance to New Testament believers, not to Old Testament believers; and
- 4. to interpret in the light of the established doctrines of Scripture rather than attempting to establish a doctrine on a type.⁴

What are the differences between Israel and the Church?

- Israel was a nation, the Church is not a nation.
- The Law applies to the physical descendants of Jacob (Israel) whether they are a nation or not.

Also it will be helpful to search our everything that is said in Scripture regarding a particular offering, such as the burnt offering, rather than to confine ourselves to chapters 1-5 or even just Leviticus.
